OXBOW SUMMER ART CAMP HISTORY

Since 1999, The Oxbow School has been offering a one-semester, visual arts-based program for high school juniors and seniors nationwide. The school was built on the belief that active involvement in the arts fosters flexible thinking and creative problem-solving skills that will serve students in all their future pursuits.

After four years of seeing the benefit of Oxbow's philosophy and approach to learning, Oxbow Summer Art Camp was founded in 2004. It was designed as a camp for younger teens, and shares in the school's belief that, given a safe, nurturing yet challenging environment, students can grow and make decisions for their lives, which are healthy and uniquely theirs. Our camp shares the semester program's belief in the huge impact an artistic education can have on the life and intellectual development of an individual.

Oxbow Summer Art Camp is also a vehicle whereby students interested in the semester program can get a "taste" of the Oxbow culture for a shorter period of time to see if the longer academic program will be a good fit for them.

CAMP GOALS

1. We operate in a culture of respect and safety for each other, ourselves, art, and the environment.
2. We are engaged in a community that is inclusive, compassionate, and open-minded. We cultivate awareness and appreciation of our social and cultural backgrounds.
3. We value playfulness and commitment as key components of personal growth.
4. All members care for each other and make decisions based on what is best for the individual and community as a whole. Everyone will be a participant in defining the community ideals.
5. We value process and risk-taking over the outcome. Oxbow community members challenge themselves with both their artwork and within their peer-community.
6. We recognize that each artist has their own unique voice, and we aim to nurture that at every stage of the artistic process.
7. We will practice deep listening and ask engaging, challenging questions to encourage personal reflection, creative problem solving, and sharing.
8. We encourage open, honest communication and support among all members of the community. We strive to identify and articulate our individual boundaries and needs, and commit to respecting the boundaries and needs of others.
9. We teach what we love and are models of what we'd like to see in the Oxbow community.

WHY ART?

10 LESSONS THE ARTS TEACH

By Elliot Eisner, Ph.D.

1. The arts teach “youth” to make good judgments about qualitative relationships. Unlike much of the curriculum in which correct answers and rules prevail, in the arts, it is judgment rather than rules that prevail.
2. The arts teach “youth” that problems can have more than one solution and that questions can have more than one answer.
3. The arts celebrate multiple perspectives. One of their large lessons is that there are many ways to see and interpret the world.
4. The arts teach “youth” that in complex forms of problem solving, purposes are seldom fixed, but change with circumstance and opportunity. Learning in the arts requires the ability and a willingness to surrender to the unanticipated possibilities of the work as it unfolds.
5. The arts make vivid the fact that neither words in their literal form nor numbers exhaust what we can know. The limits of our language do not define the limits of our cognition.
6. The arts teach “youth” that small differences can have large effects. The arts traffic in subtleties.
7. The arts teach “youth” to think through and within a material. All art forms employ some means through which images become real.
8. The arts help “youth” learn to say what cannot be said. When students are invited to disclose what a work of art helps them feel, they must reach into their poetic capacities to find the words that will do the job.
9. The arts enable us to have experience we can have from no other source and through such experience to discover the range and variety of what we are capable of feeling.
10. The arts’ position in the school curriculum symbolizes to “youth” what adults believe is important.

ART EDUCATION FLASH FACTS

- A student involved in the arts is four times more likely to be recognized for academic achievement.
- Students who take four years of arts and music classes average almost 100 points higher on their SAT scores than students who take only one-half year or less.
- 72 percent of business leaders say that creativity is the number one skill they are seeking when hiring.

During the program, the Oxbow camp director and staff need to make informed decisions regarding the care of every student. For each camper to have an enriching, positive and safe camp experience parents/guardians must disclose any psychiatric conditions, medical conditions, and/or special needs of their son or daughter. The camp director needs to know if a camper is experiencing traumatic reactions to family issues such as parental separation, divorce, death, etc. This information helps us provide appropriate supports. Please be aware that nondisclosure of any psychiatric or a medical conditions and/or a special needs may result in early dismissal from the program.

There may be circumstances under which we have agreed to accept a student with full knowledge psychiatric conditions, medical conditions, and/or special needs, have taken steps to make the experience successful, but find that the program is not a good fit for the needs of the camper. For the good of this student and/or the camp community, the student may have to leave camp.
